HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

A Valuable Toilet Article. — A French physician has recommended the use of powdered bromide of potassium as a cosmetic for destroying malignant and other growths; he has had good results in treating warts of the face and growths on the face.Ear Disease. — Dr. Cassella, a distinguished nasal surgeon of Glasgow, lately read a paper describing successful cases of disease, traceable to sewer gas, which had poisoned the air of houses in which the patients resided. He believes this sort of poison to be a very frequent cause of deafness.To Color Flannels Scarlet. — For one pound of flannel, take one ounce of cream of tartar, one ounce of pulverized cochineal, two ounces of muriatic acid. Use a brass kettle or boiler.
Put the cream of tartar in it with two pails of warm water; let it come to a boil, then stir in the cochineal.
When well mixed, put in the muriatic acid. Dip the articles to be colored in warm water, and then in the dye.
Stir at once. Every article, after being dyed, should be washed in cold water. Hang in the sun to dry.
Chicago Tribune.A "Boiled Dinner." — I washed a round old-fashioned iron pot in hot water, rinsed it with cold water, and then put in a generous piece of mutton (jointed, of course), a small piece of salt pork, cabbage, yellow and white turnips, beets, carrots, parsnips and potatoes.
The last named two vegetables were not put in until ten and half past eleven, while the others were put in at nine a.m. The firebrand had been laid away, and a smart fire was cracking and snapping in the fireplace. The cooking was done in "pot-boiler" and "trunk" was swung out and the pot lifted out; but we had no "pot-boiler." A plate was tried but found unsafe; as the youngest boy went out to the shop, and after a short time came in bringing a head of a good pot-boiler, and a woman could ask. It was put on and found a perfect fit. No pot could possibly find its way into the pot-boiler; therefore it was swung triumphantly over the fire, and in a few minutes the head was broken up, and the fire kept it boiling; no small of cabbage and turnips penetrated into house, but the air was pure and fresh as that from the hills, and we unanimously decided that a fireplace is improvement upon a stove for the time being. A few minutes before twelve I brought down from the top shelf of the cupboard, where we kept our antiquated ware, a large, deep, old-fashioned, blue-glazed plate, and upon that the mutton, the cabbage, the turnips, the beets, the carrots, the parsnips, and the potatoes were piled up. Upon one side of that centric dish I put a plate of bread; upon the other, a bit of butter.
The good man sat down, he thought the old-fashioned dinner was just perfect. — Letter to Poughkeepsie Eagle.As a matter of fact, it is surprising how many of our consumers of oatmeal have never in our cities within the past few years; but we suspect that its merits as a cheap and highly nutritious food are not so generally appreciated in the country. Every one knows how generally it is eaten in Scotland, and in some parts of England it is equally popular as an article of diet. A correspondent of an English exchange says: "In West Cumberland, Westmoreland, and Lancashire, especially in the rural parts, it forms the staple of our food, not only amongst the laboring classes, but also in the families of tradesmen and the well-to-do of the children of most of them have porridge at least once a day. For the past forty years I have made my breakfast of a pint of oatmeal porridge, with very rare exceptions, and nothing else, fasting for four hours afterward. It is to me the best food I ever ate, and I have found myself very hungry before the next meal, which is never the case when I have had my porridge. I feel assured that if the laborers of the southern counties, with their children, would take a basin of oatmeal and mild porridge night and morning, with such other food as they can procure in the interval, we should have a much stronger and healthier race of men and women than now exist. A few years ago, I had a Dorsetshire girl living with me as a to work, but not the stamina to received. She said she had a basin of
